COUNCIL ADOPTS ORDINANCE FOR TRAFFIC CONTROL

An ordinance regulating traffic upon the public streets of the city of Daly City, and repealing all ordinances and parts of ordinances inconsistent therewith, was approved at the meeting of the City Council last Monday evening. Councilmen Bodien, Moran and Dalton were present, Councilman Bodien acting as chairman, Mayor H. H. Smith and Councilman Sundermann being absent.

The ordinance committee reported that the by-laws of the Daly City Volunteer Fire Department are now in the hands of the city attorney, ready for drafting.

A protest was presented by Oscar Johnson, of Peoria street, near Roosevelt avenue, against the practice of boys playing ball in the vacant lots in that section, thereby, it was said, breaking windows and endangering pedestrians and passing machines. Chief Doyle was instructed to investigate this matter.

Owners of dogs that have not had their license tax paid are advised to beware, as it was announced that the city poundmaster will wage a vigorous campaign to catch all dogs that are not licensed.

It was announced that it is very important that Chief of Police Doyle be notified by anyone going on a vacation, so that their home can be kept under observance, and thus in all probability prevent petty thefts.

All visiting presidents, including Mrs. Ivy Alexander, president of Crocker P. T. A., were presented with a beautiful corsage bouquet of yellow roses and white sweet peas, gold and white being their colors. A delightful afternoon was spent, after which dainty refreshments were served.

ALL STARS DEFEAT DE SOTO PLAYERS

The Jefferson All Stars made it their seventh straight victory last Sunday, defeating the De Soto Motor Car Company's baseball team at the Jefferson Union high school grounds by the score of 10 to 4.

With Chick pitching brilliant ball, and his team-mates afforing him splendid support, he breezed to victory, fanning ten batters.

The Jefferson All Stars must wait until the high school ball season is over before they can acquire the services of Gene Keagle and Lawrence Kennedy. Both of these ball players will make the team complete. Very little need be mentioned about Keagle, for everyone knows the remarkable record he has established since transfering from San Jose to Jefferson.

The members of the team are giving their untiring efforts to make a success of the benefit dance, the funds from which will be used to purchase their baseball uniforms. It is certain that they will be successful in this enterprise, if they receive the cooperation of the citizens of this community.

This promise was given last Wednesday at a meeting of the directors of Joint Highway District No. 9.

Plans and specifications were ordered drawn up that bids may be called for at the next meeting of the board.

CALVARY BAPTIST MISSION B. Y. P. U. INVITES VISITORS

A missionary's little girl looked over the barren, sunburned plains of their new field of labor, and said: "It isn't nearly so nice as America, is it, mother?" And the mother answered: "No, my child, that is why we have come."

Can anyone doubt that she will win the allegiance of the people? She has caught the spirit of Jesus, the spirit of sympathy and service that inevitably makes one a leader.

It is this same thought that the Young People of Calvary Mission will try to put across at their meeting next Sunday evening at 6:45. All young people welcome. The street number is 5724 Mission street, just below Oliver.

STATE SHOWS BIG POPULATION GAIN

California had a population of 5,466,104 at the end of January, 1928, an increase of 67,647 over the previous year, according to an estimate by Ray L. Riley, state controller. The figures represent an increase of 2,039,243 since the 1920 census, when the state's population was 3,426,861.

Population for the cities upon which estimates have been made total 4,399,569, Riley reported, indicating that approximately 19 per cent of the state poplation is rural.

Estimates for cities over 20,000 follow: Los Angels, 1,343,932; San Francisco, 698,963; Oakland, 312,442; San Diego, 125,194; Sacramento, 101,376; Berkeley, 82,351; Long Beach, 139,467; Pasadena, 85,469; Stockton, 49,635; Fresno, 72,616; San Jose, 56,307; Alameda, 49,635; Vallejo, 22,282; Santa Barbara, 32,368; Riverside, 31,484; Bakersfield, 29,552; San Bernardino, 41,237; Richmond, 21,145.

BEGIN CAMPAIGN FOR NEW LIBRARY AT REDWOOD CITY

Citizens of Redwood City are a step nearer to a new and adequate library as the result of a meeting called by the trustees of the Sequoiah high school and library officials. At this meeting it was decided to relinquish hold on the library site on Broadway and from the proceeds of this sale start a new library on the site near the city hall. It is estimated that the sale will bring a minimum of $20,000.

SEVEN ARE VICTIMS OF WEEK END ACCIDENTS

Week end traffic accidents claimed seven victims throughout San Mateo county, only one of whom was reported seriously hurt. This was Miss Marjorie Webb, aged 16, injured with three others when their automobile overturned in a ditch near La Honda. Miss Webb, daughter of W. T. Webb, Hayward insurance broker, suffered a possible skull fracture in addition to severe cuts.

APPROVE COUNTY GOVERNMENT BILL

The session of the state legislature which convened on February 18, came to a close at 1:20 Thursday morning.

The lawmakers, shortly before adjournment, approved the San Mateo county government bill, and sent it to Governor Young for his signature. This measure has caused considerable discussion in this county.

Of two other bills which interested San Mateo county at the legislative session, one has been adopted and one died in committee. The former was the bill creating machinery for the consolidation of San Francisco and San Mateo counties. That also awaits the governor's signature. The other measure, creating a second department of the Superior Court in San Mateo and providing for a second superior judge, died in committee.

One of the features of the legislative session was the trial and acquittal by the Senate of Judge Carlos S. Hardy of Los Angeles, on charges growing out of the Aimee Semple McPherson "kidnaping" case.

Out of the mass of legislative material from the session is the adoption of a new state policy as to private and public toll bridges. That is set up in the Fellom bills passed Tuesday and sent to the governor. Its effect upon the entire state highway system is declared to be of much importance. It is asserted as a doctrine that the state shall take over the existing toll bridges, build others necessary and make them free and part of the highway system as soon as possible. The proposed San Francisco-Alameda bridge come swithin this scope.

Automobile regulation includes a revision of traffic laws, the establishing of of centralized motor vehicle control and the Levey safety bills.

The legislature has set a new mark in laws relating to the illicit narcotic traffic.

Issues appertaining to taxation and water conservation are left for further investigation and study by the state commissions. Measures were passed to cover bank and business corporation taxes. The inheritance tax has been considerably reduced.

The legislature passed a resolution urging Congress to investigate the telephone companies and their subsidiaries with relation to the question of monopoly, costs of service and equipment. This would go toward determining fair and equitable tolls.

Many lines of legislative investigation appear to be marked out for the coming two years. These include surveys and studies deemed necessary to obtain correct data before new legislation shall be recommended.

Numerous proposed constitutional amendemnts have been adopted for submission to popular vote at the November election in 1931.

Governor Young has until June 19 to complete his examination of bills yet to be signed or vetoed by him.

JEFFERSON UNION HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

By the Class in Journalism

Having annexed the championship of the P. A. L. and beaten Watsonville 6-3, Jefferson will advance another step in her march to a state baseball title when she meets Tamalpais high tomorrow afternoon at the San Mateo ball park. The game is called for 2:15 o'clock in order to enable a large crowd to attend. Admission to the park is 25 cents. The game played last Tuesday at Watsonville was remarkable for the number of squeeze plays by which Jefferson scored. The pitching was well balanced, Keagle of Jefferson making nine strikeouts, and allowing five hits and seven walks, while Alviso, for the southern school, made nine strikeouts and allowed six hits and nine walks.

If the Indians beat Tamalpais, they will earn the championship of the north coast counties. This division includes high schools from Crescent City, in the north, to King City, in the south.

Inspection of the San Francisco Chronicle printing plant, the most modern one west of Chicago, will be made by members of the Press club and journalism class tonight at 7 o'clock. Each year the journalism class makes this trip, but never before have the students gone at night. The advantage of evening inspection is that the presses will actually be running, so that the students may see the method of operation, as well as the machines themselves.

Decorations for the junior-senior banquet will be aeronautical in design, and the slogan will be "Up in the Air." This was the decision reached at the meeting of the banquet committee on May 7.

The speakers for the banquet were announced and will be: Toastmaster, Hugh Smith; speakers, Louis Andersen, Mr. Bentley, Miss Dannenbaum, Mr. Ferguson, Evelyn Hanschen, Mrs. Jensen, Evelyn McKee, Miss Potter, and Benny Roth. The subjects have not as yet been assigned.

Organizing the literary club was the purpose of the meeting called last Monday after school in the library, of all students who were eligible to membership. Officers were elected who are to hold office next semester, but who are to get the club organized and started this semester.

The officers who were chosen are: Rosemary Reed, president; Robert Van Houte, vice-president; and Billy Jaques, secretary-treasurer. Those nominated for the offices were: President, Irene Smith, Miriam Bentley, and Rosemary Reed; vice-president, Nell Van Heusden, Robert Van Houte, and Benny Roth; secretary-treasurer, Maxine Slaght, Billy Jaques, and Leonard Muller.

It was decided that the president would be given power to appoint a committee of five to frame the constitution of the club. The following were appointed: George Gnau, Martha Johnson, Viola Rehaume, and Paul Williams. This committee, together with the English teachers of the faculty, are to frame a constitution. Their first meeting is called for this coming Friday at noon.

Approval of the work of the school was expressed by Prof. Clarence D. Brenner, examiner from the University of California, when he visited the school on Thursday, according to Mr. Ferguson.

This means that the graduates of the school will be accepted at the university on recommendable grades, and they will not have to take special entrance examinations.

BOARD SCORES PROPAGANDA BY ANNEXATIONISTS

A report was adopted by the San Mateo county board of supervisors last Monday, scoring the health department of the city of San Francisco for alleged unfair and untrue propaganda attempting to attack health conditions in this county.

The report declares pointedly that conditions in San Mateo county are so much better than in San Francisco that there is no comparison, and that the only real complaint on sewage outlets in San Mateo has been lodged against the outlet of the hospital maintained in this county by San Francisco.

Copies of the report were ordered sent to the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, city health department of San Francisco, and the consolidation committee of the chamber.

It was charged that the unfair propaganda originated at a meeting of the consolidation committee on April 18 in San Francisco, when the committee was ostensibly receiving reports of a study of health conditions and problems of the two counties. Dr. William C. Hassler, San Francisco health officer, is alleged to have reported unfavorable sewage outlet conditions in San Mateo county and to have compared meat and milk inspection unfavorable with such service in San Francisco.

When the report was published it presented so unfair a picture of health conditions in San Mateo county that District Attorney Franklin Swart and County Health Officer Dr. Holmes Smith were called in and asked to prepare a report setting forth the facts.

The report was introduced by Supervisor Thomas L. Hickey and was unanimously adopted.

The Peninsula Paving Commpany of Redwood City was awarded the contract for the improvement of two sections of Middlefield road, between Redwood City and Palo Alto, by the board of supervisors. The bid was $33,245.02.

A claim of the Hanrahan Paving Company for $6,496 on a street paving contract in Visitacion valley was held up by the supervisors, on the ground that the streets in question served the grammar school district's property, and the latter must bear the expense.

COUNTY SCHOOL BANDS MAKE ENVIABLE SHOWING

High school bands of San Mateo and Burlingame returned with honors from the California band contest held in San Francisco last Saturday, in which over fifty high school bands from all sections of the state participated.

San Mateo won first honors in the militray parade, while Burlingame captured first honors in the Class D contest with a 48 piece band. San Mateo band rated fourth in Class B. Burlingame's senior band in Class A succeeded in winning a third. Princeton high school for the third consecutive time won first place for all state competition.

THE SKIPPER COMES ASHORE

By James D. McCLURE.
Released by National Automoble Club.

INTRODUCTION.

Announcing a series of articles taken from the official log of the good ship "Argosy," on her voyage of romance and pleasure, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine; traversing the highways and byways of California under the guiding hand of Skipper Jim, and mascoted by Seagull, as bristling and wiry a terrier as ever trod the quarter-deck.

The Skipper speaks: "It's afloat I was born, and it's afloat I have stayed these fifty years, through fair weather and foul. I have sailed before the mast under good men and bad; I have piloted many a windjammer across the bar, and, in my own right as master and owner, I have guided the 'Mary Ellen,' as swift and trim a clipper-ship as ever weighed anchor out of Boston, bent on a rough-riding, sea-busting voyage 'round the Horn. When steam took the place of sails, I served between the West Coast and the Orient, and now, while I have still two firm legs upon which to stand, I am retiring from the sea.

During my years of service I have harkened to many a story of the desert, with its scorching heat and shifting sands; to many a tale of the mountains, woods and plains. I have read vivid descriptions of the wonders of my native land; I have studied pictures of spots that must be akin to heaven. Many an hour have I stood watch, dreaming of the day when I might wander, care-free and foot-loose to the places of my desire. Rugged shorelines have I seen; glimpses of the warm-sea islands, or the skylines of great cities, but always from the deck of the ship.

"Back, beyond the horizon as it has appeared to me, there lies much that I must see and know, and so now folks, I am cruising ashore in as trim a little craft as man could want. I've traded my 'papers' for a driver's license, my charts for road maps, and, retaining only my compass and Seagull, my mascot, I'm setting forth to this Terra Firma of which I have so often heard, read, and dreamed—but seldom seen.

"Follow me through the redwood forests of the north; through the scented pines and firs of the high Sierras; along the shore of our Pacific ocean—sometimes following mile upon mile high up on the rugged bluffs, sometimes gliding along the stretches of glistening silver sand, always mindful of the hiss and roar of the surf. Let us go beside the peaceful lakes and turbulent streams of our mountains; over snow-mantled crests of our great divides; down through the fiery wastes of Death Valley.

"Trace our way across the plains whose first roads were the trails worn smooth by incessant tread of oxen and the constant rolling of the cumbersome wagons of the early immigrant trains. Camp beneath the trees and beside the streams where also camped heroes of the frontier days: Fremont, Kit Carson, or the Padres. Journey through spots made famous by writers of early California history: Hangtown, Coarse Gold, Dutch Flat—relics of the Days of '49; or the El Camino Real—the King's Highway—trod by the feet of those Padres who first brought white civilization to our western shores.

"Follow us—in spirit or in fancy—through storm and sunshine, through sand and snow, across mountains and valleys, on a wonderful trail through a wonderful land. Better yet, pack your duffle, weigh anchor, and follow in reality our trails of romance and pleasure."

John Read, Marin county's first English-speaking settler, arrived in 1826, erected a crude hut near the beach and patiently awaited a grant from the Mexican government. His practical nature and nautical experience led him to costruct a small passenger-carrying sailboat with which he inaugurated the first ferry system between Marin county and San Francisco—then known as Yerba Buena. Eight years later, in 1834, he received a grant to Rancho Corte Madero del Presidio, lying a few miles north of Sausalito. Mill Valley was named after the old mill erected to cut lumber for Read's home and ranch buildings.

Captain William Richardson built the first adobe house in Sausalito, in the wooded canyon now known as "Wildwood Glen." To this home, in 1836, he brought his beautiful bride, Senorita Maria Antonia Martinez, the daughter of Ygnacio Martinez, namesake of the city of Martinez in Contra Costa county.

Captain Richardson's marriage paved the way for the home life of the new community. The rancho was stocked with cattle, an orchard was planted, and the grounds brightened with flowers and shrubbery. In this atmosphere of beauty and contentment the young couple were supremely happy; the native Indians dwelt in peace along the banks of the stream flowing through the rancho on its coures to the Bay, but now Sausalito Rancho and its home life are a memory; the stream no longer exists; the Indians have disappeared under the oppression of the white man's civilization. Nineteen thousand acres of Sausalito Rancho, fertile and beautiful, have become the dwelling place of thousands, among whose number but few ever allow their thoughts to revert to the romance of the past years enacted on this spot—the sole monument to which is a knotted and gnarled pear tree, still struggling to blossom and bear as it did in the days of its planter.

On a hillside overlooking the Bay, a crescent shaped seat perpetuates the memory of another of Sausalito's historic characters, Daniel O'Connell, the Irish poet—son of a distinguished lawyer, and grand-nephew of Daniel O'Connell, the illustrious Irish patriot. On the back of the seat is inscribed a verse taken from a poem written just ten days before his death.

Getting our bearings from a signpost, we steered a northward course along the shore of Richardson's Bay. Rolling along the highway, with never a pitch or toss to reconcile my seagoing constitution, I began to suffer slight pangs of land-sickness and so was only too glad, at Manzanita, to head westward into a road where the going was a bit more choppy. With the exception of an occasional dip at the bow, permitting the shipping of muddy seas, we experienced fair going as the road led upwards through a section of low growth and picturesque rock formations, with now and then a cluster of larger trees—straggler from the groves on the side of Mt. Tamalpais. Reaching the crest, we caught a light breeze from the ocean and Seagull, my wire-haired terrier mascot, showed his first signs of genuine animation.

As we came to the headlands south of Bolinas Bay the fog lifted, allowing me my first view of the ocean from the standpoint of a landsman. Northward and southward, until they disappeared in the distant haze, there stretched an endless line of breakers. From my position on the bluffs, I could hear the dull boom of their breaking, the smothered roar as they rushed shoreward, the rattling hiss as they spent their force upon the pebbles of the beach. How much more friendly were their voices now than when, from the sea, I have, on the night watch, caught that ominous note that foretold a course too close to shore.

(Next Week—Northward, along the Coast, to Fort Ross.)

TELEPHOTO HELPS TRAP MAN WANTED BY POLICE

Dective Captains H. A. Hansley and Claude P. Peter of Los Angeles got their man the other day after they had traced him two thirds of the way across the continent by means of a telephotograph.

The man was wanted for a shortage in his accounts. This shortage was discovered only some thirty minutes after he had disappeared, and before the day was out his photograph, finger-prints and an accurate description of the man had been spread to cities of over 20,000 inhabitants. This was done first by means of telephotographs wired to the various central offices where facilities are located, and from these cities sent out by airplane. The man was finally located in Louisiana.

NAPA CHAMBER FAVORS NEW ROAD

The Napa Chamber of Commerce has gone on record in favor of the Great Northern-Western Pacific project to construct the 200 mile connecting line of railroad between Klamath Falls, the Southern Oregon terminus of the Great Northern, and Paxton or Keddie, California on the main line of the Western Pacific, which will give the Great Northern an entry into California and thereby create a new, through, and competitive route from the Mexican border to the Canadian provinces. The action of the Napa Chamber of Commerce is voiced in the following resolution which was unanimously adopted by the directors.

"Resolved by the Napa Chamber of Commerce that it believes the best interests of the State of California and this community will be served by the construction of a new through line of railroad between Oregon and California, and that the application of the Great Northern Railway Company and the Western Pacific Railroad Company, now pending before the Interstate Commerce Commission for certificates of public convenience and necessity permitting the extension of the Great Northern Railway Company's line and the Western Pacific Railroad Company's line to a connection at Lookout, California, will be supported by this Chamber of Commerce."

Phil May's Humorous Suggestion to Artist

The death of old Lord Iveagh, head of the Guinness family of Guinness stout fame—on the Iveagh estate of $55,000,000 no less than $22,000,000 goes to the government—led a prohibition officer to say:

"I'll tell you a story. You've heard of Phil May, the great black-and-white artist? Well, May had a red and bulbous nose; and Shannon once did portraits of him and of Lord Iveagh for the Royal academy.

"As May's red-nosed portrait was being finished he happened to see the great stout brewer's on an easel.

"'I say, Shannon,' he said, 'you ought to hang Lord Iveagh and me side by side. Call him 'Cause' and me 'Effect.'"

SOME GOOD CAKES

Take one-third of a cupful of shortening, one cupful of brown sugar, one and one-half cupful of granulated sugar, two eggs, one-half cupful of cold coffee, one cupful of raisins, one-eighth teaspoonful of salt, three teaspoonfuls of baking powder, three-fourths teaspoonful of cinnamon, and one-fourth teaspoonful each of nutmeg and clove. Put all into a bowl together and beat until a smooth batter is made. Bake in a dripping pan or in two layers. Use whipped cream or any desired filling.

Modern Pound Cake.—Take one cupful of sugar, two-thirds cupful of shortening, four eggs, one-half teaspoonful each of vanilla and lemon extract, one tablespoonful of milk, one and one-third cupfuls of flour, one-half teaspoonful of baking powder and one-third of a teaspoonful of salt. Cream together the shortening and sugar, add the eggs one at a time and beat well, then add the extracts, sift the dry ingredients and add them to the first mixture with the milk. Bake in a medium-sized cake pan which has been lightly greased.

Fudge Cake.—Take three squares of chocolate melted over hot water. Add one-half cupful of milk, mixed with one egg yolk, stir and cook until it thickens. Stir into this one cupful of sugar, two tablespoonfuls of butter, add vanilla for flavoring and then add one-eighth cupful of flour sifted with one-eighth teaspoonful of salt, then add another cupful of milk. Beat well and add three-fourths of a teaspoonful of soda dissolved in one teaspoonful of boiling water and the egg white beaten stiff. Bake in a medium-sized dripping pan for forty minutes in a moderate oven.

Rich Sponge Cake.—Cream one-half cupful of shortening with one cupful of sugar, add the grated rind of half a lemon, the juice and the yolks of three eggs. Sift together one and one-half cupfuls of flour, one-fourth teaspoonful each of soda and salt, add alternately to the first mixture with the whites of the eggs beaten stiff added lastly. Bake in small muffin pans twenty to twenty-five minutes in a moderate oven.

Chocolate Cake. — Cream three-fourths of a cupful of shortening with two cupfuls of sugar, then add three unbeaten eggs one at a time and beat well. Measure two and one-half cupfuls of sifted flour, with two teaspoonfuls of baking powder and one teaspoonful of salt; add alternately with one cupful of milk, mix well and add four squares of melted chocolate. Beat well and bake in a moderate oven for one hour.

A Few Tid Bits.

The unusual always appeals to the average appetite. Anything out of the ordinary will be tried once by most people.

Sauerkraut and Carrot Salad.—Wash and scrape eight new carrots, then put through a meat chopper, add two cupfuls of sauerkraut, one cupful of cream dressing, one-half cupful of halves of English walnuts; mix and serve on lettuce.

California Mock Duck.—Take one and one-half pounds of steak from the flank, pound it well. Brown quickly on both sides in a hot frying pan. Mix other seasonings as follows: One cupful of chopped prunes, one and one-half cupfuls of crumbs, one beaten egg, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one-eighth teaspoonful of pepper, one teaspoonful of lemon juice and small pieces of suet. Roll and tie. Lay pieces of suet over the top, place in a roasting pan, add hot water and bake one hour. Thicken the gravy and serve.

One of the new discoveries which will be available where the papaya is grown is that the leaves wrapped around a piece of meat for an hour or two will soften the fiber and make it more tender. It would seem that a piece of the leaf added to the meat while cooking would help, too.

Red Star Inn Sauerkraut.—Place the kraut on the heat with enough of the liquor to cover. Add a ham bone and a few sliced onions, cook for an hour. Add enough grated potato to thicken slightly; a few juniper berries and caraway seeds may be added while cooking to enrich the flavor.

Sliced Lemon Pie.—Grate the rind of one lemon, peel the white part from one and one-half lemons and slice the pulp very thin, discarding the seeds. Beat two eggs until light, add one and one-fourth cupfuls of sugar, the grated rind, one-fourth cupful of water, one tablespoonful of melted butter and one-eighth teaspoonful of salt; add the lemon slices and bake between two crusts.

With milk so important, green leaves comes next as one of the protective foods.

SECURITY

The train drew up at a station and there was a long wait during which many of the passengers got up and craned their necks to see what was happening. At last a man carrying a heavy box climbed wearily aboard and deposited the box on the rack.

A nervous old gentleman eyed the huge package with evident distrust.

"Do you think that box is safe there?" he demanded

"Oh, yes," replied the man, cheerfully, "it's locked!"

Trail Missing Man While He Trails Wolf

Clinton, Iowa.—Frank Welch, a farmhand near Preston, Iowa, has earned a great reputation in northeastern Iowa for perseverance, but his friends hope the next time he starts out to track down a wolf he will let them know. Recently they spent five days searching snow-covered fields for him, only to learn he had spent the time trailing a wolf across Jackson county, over the ice on the Mississippi river, and into Illinois, where he killed it.

GIRL OVERCOMES HEAVY HANDICAP

Deaf, Dumb and Blind, She Acquires Education.

Spartansburg, S. C.—A second Helen Keller is Miss Ruby Miller, twenty years old, a student at the South Carolina State Institute for the Deaf and Blind, in this city. The girl, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Miller, of Columbia, was left totally blind, deaf, and dumb when three years old, by an attack of meningitis. For nearly six years she remained in a state of under-development.

She now can speak plainly, knit, do basket work, bead work, plain sewing, cook, read and play the piano, and has a speaking knowledge of Latin and French, both vocally and by the sign language.

The girl is unable to hear any sound, yet by training she has learned to use her vocal cords in intelligible speech. Although she cannot hear the pitch of her words, they have remarkable inflection and expression. She "hears" by a sense of touch in which she can tell by vibrations the words others speak to her. To do this she places the fingers of one hand across the speaker's lips and her thumbs beneath the chin.

Miss Miller has no recollection of sound, but says she can recall having once seen some cows pass the front yard at her home before her illness swept away both sight and hearing. In spite of her affliction the young woman is cheerful and full of fun.

Caught in Bear Trap Four Days and Nights

Denver.—Facing the loss of one hand and suffering from exposure, Joseph Schneider, forty-five, war veteran and trapper, lay in a hospital here and told his experience of having been caught in a bear trap for four days and nights.

While gathering pines needles to cover his own traps, Schneider thrust his hand into a huge steel bear trap. Realizing that death by infection and starvation was inevitable unless he could release himself, Schneider struggled four days and nights.

He lapsed into unconsciousness several times and was tortured by hunger and thirst. He tried to reach his shotgun ten feet away to commit suicide, but failed.

Finally, on the fourth day, he succeeded in maneuvering the trap under his knees and sprang the springs enough to tear his hand loose.

Almost exhausted, he walked 12 miles to Tolland, the nearest point medical attention was available.

From there he was brought here.

Police Lose Battle for Woman's Life

New York.—Mrs. Sarah Stucator is dead despite the efforts of 26 policemen who worked in relays for 21 hours to save her life after she had inhaled gas while sleeping.

Mrs. Stucator was found unconscious on the floor after neighbors had smelled gas which had escaped from a disconnected heater.

Calls summoned an ambulance and a police rescue squad. Her heart was too weak to risk a half-hour run to the hospital without administration of oxygen, so two policemen climbed into the vehicle and held the tank while a doctor pumped the contents into her lungs.

Truck after truck, loaded with gas tanks, rolled up in quick succession.

Locomotive Kills Wolf; Trainmen Get Bounty

Montreal, Que.—Running down a timber wolf with a locomotive was the unusual sport tried near North Bay, Ont., recently, when a light engine bagged a 90-pound specimen. Engineer Lafontaise, on rounding a curve, saw the wolf on the tracks a short distance ahead, and opening the throttle, succeeded in striking the beast with the pilot steps. Conductor W. G. Watling ran back and finished off the animal with a poker. A bounty is paid on wolf skins by the government, as the animals are a menace to game and live stock.

Escort Takes Girl's Purse, Ring and Cash

Davenport, Iowa. — When Miss Bernadine Moss met a young man who offered to escort her home she thought he was a nice boy. Today she is minus her purse, a diamond ring and $90 in cash, which, she told police, he stole from her while taking her home.

That Kind of Fellow Altogether Too Slow

"Too much promiscuous kissing is bad for young people," declares Judge Ben Lindsey. "It robs juvenile life and gayety of its wholesomeness and is a grave threat to high moral standards.

"Things that would have been shocking a few years ago are now regarded as virtues and lack of them is liable to make one a social outcast.

"Some college coeds were decorating their frat house for Christmas when one of the girls asked the head of the decorating committee:

"'Aren't we going to have any mistletoe this year?'

"'No,' replied the other, 'I've found that the fellows who need it aren't worth a hang'."

Banish Blue Monday

Nation's Paint Bill

The paint bill of the United States during 1927 reached the tremendous total of $519,009,842, according to a census of manufacture taken by the Department of Commerce. More than 1,000 establishments were engaged in the manufacture of paints and varnishes, and a total of 28,061 wage earners, other than salaried employees, were engaged in turning out the product. New York state led, with 162 plants engaged in the business, and Illinois ran second with 109.

Russ Ball Blue, I want. Insist, don't accept substitutes. Grocers sell coast to coast.—Adv.

No Trailing Drapery Here

The postmaster at Dodge City, Kan., agrees that this is a day of skimpy dress. A woman handed him a parcel to be weighed for mailing. It was about four and a half inches wide and eight inches long. "What does this parcel contain?" was his routine question. "My daughter's party dress," the woman replied. The postage was four cents.

Maybe So

"My dear, you dress too daringly. All you flappers do."

"Nonsense, dad. In a few years they will be referring to us as old-fashioned girls."

SCHOOLS AND BUSINESS

Considerable criticism has arisen in certain quarters of late because of the co-operation of groups of business men with the schools and colleges in the matter of text-book revision.

The critics assume that the interest of business men in this matter is entirely selfish and actuated by a desire to direct the thought of the students along lines in conformity with big business. The business men declare that they only seek to bring the text-books up to date and in some instances to eliminate what they contend is Socialistic propagadna which has been introduced.

The subject is one of great importance and one concerning which it is not safe to jump at conclusions. Certainly it is in the interest of the students, as well as in the interest of the public, that they should have accurate information in their text-books. The accuracy and fairness of presentation of a subject is the vital thing.

Recently the United States Bureau of Education, in an an official statement, said of the activities of business groups in this connection:

"In the past many text-books for commercial subjects have been prepared by authors whose business experience, if any, was not sufficient to enable them to record accurately the practices in business. As a result of research, 4,560 corrections were made and reported to twenty-six publishers of the text. The responses from the authors and publishers have proved the worthiness of business men's efforts to put commerical education on a fact basis."

No reasonable person could object to such co-operation between business men and the schools. It is only when attempts are made, from whatever source, to inject prejudiced matter into school books that a halt should be called. Each case should be considered on its merits, and wholesale criticism, without discrimination as to the real purposes sought, is unwarranted and unjust.

Correct this sentence: "I keep my troubles to myself, but I am always glad to listen to those of others."

QUEER OIL MUDDLE

The difficulty in making common sense laws for the regulation of business is strikingly illustrated in the present muddle over crude oil production. For several years it was generally understood that the anti-trust laws probably forbade an agreement among oil producers to limit drilling, although unrestrained drilling caused serious overproduction and consequent waste.

Then the Oil Conservation Board, composed of members of the President's Cabinet, studied the situation and strongly intimated that efforts of producers to limit their output would not be opposed by the goverment.

After much discussion and long efforts to reach an agreement to curtail drilling, a plan was adopted recently which promised to accomplish the desired result.

Now Attorney General Mitchell gives notice that the new plan is in violation of the anti-trust laws and must not be put into effect. The oil men justly feel that they have been misled by the goverment, and there is talk of carrying out their plan, and taking chances with the courts. Everyone agrees that in the interests of conservation the production of crude oil should be reduced, but the law stands in the way.

Thus we see a movement for conservation and real benefit to the whole country obstructed by a law which was designed to protect the public. Maybe the obstruction can be removed by passing another law.

HINDENBURG

If Field Marshal Paul von Hindenburg had died ten years ago, he would have gone down in history as the embodiment of ruthless militarism. During the World war he was considered to be an uncompromising advocate of the mailed fist, the incarnation of the idea that might makes right.

When he was elected president of the German republic in 1925, it was feared by many that this was a step toward a return to kaiserism. But, although he was supported by the monarchists and defeated a republican candidate, he has since been the staunchest supporter of the republic. His every action has been for peace and the rehabilitation of his country.

A few days ago President von Hindenburg distributed gifts amounting to approximately $100,000 from a fund presented to him by the German people since his accession to the presidency. The gifts were made to needy veterans and war widows.

Thus the grim old warrior, now 82, again shows himself as a true patriot and a man of warm human sympathies. It seems to have been good for Germany, and for the world, that Paul von Hindenburg was spared beyond the alloted three score and ten years.

MOVIES AS TEACHERS

As human knowledge becomes more extended and modern life becomes more complex, it is utterly impossible for any individual to absorb more than an insignificant portion of the information which would be available to him had he the time to apply himself to its acquisition.

Even to keep in touch with the present day is beyond the grasp of the marvelous developments of the average person, let alone any profound delving into the lore of the past.

After a day of routine duties few have the inclination to pursue studies which add to their information and culture. Here is where moving pictures might be utilized most effectively to teach as well as to entertain. Here millions who could never be induced to open a serious book might receive valuable information by the easiest as well as the most direct means, the impressions made being also more enduring than those gained from the printed page. If accompanied by brief oral explanations, the picture method would be ideal for imparting a wide range of knowledge.

In the instruction of children this would hold good to an even greater degree, especially in the teaching of history and the natural sciences. In fact the possibilities for rapid, accurate and lasting instruction by this means is almost limitless.

The time will no doubt come when every progressive school will have a moving picture machine as an important part of its equipment.

HUMANIZING BUSINESS

Whether certain classes of business and industry are becoming more considerate of employes because the companies are more prosperous, or whether they are prosperous because of better provisions for the employes, may be an open question. But the fact seems to be that concerns which pay high wages and take an interest in the welfare of their workers are making the most money today.

A few examples recently cited by B. C. Forbes will illustrate the present trend among the larger corporations, particularly with respect to stock ownership by employes:

"Graybar Electric is now entirely owned by its workers. General Electric has 34,000 stockholders among its employes. United States Steel was a pioneer in selling stock to employes on easy terms. In 28 years the Pennsylvania railroad has paid out over $58,000,000 in pensions to employes on its roll of honor. Several Standard Oil companies operate a similar plan. The American Telephone and Telegraph Company has more employe stockholders than any other concern in the world, the number reaching more than 450,000. General Motors has an employes' savings and investment plan, a preferred stock plan and a housing plan for its workers."

Many other companies, large and small, are pursuing similar policies, with apparent satisfaction and profit. Thus, it may be truly said that American business and industry is being steadily humanized, to the benefit of capital and labor alike. In fact, the worker is now becoming a capitalist, and a part owner of the business to which he devotes his efforts.

SOME MONKEY BUSINESS

This is getting to be an era of big business, even in the monkey industry, according to an Associated Press writer, who tells of the operations of Ludwig Ruhe of New York, who imports more than 3,500 small monkeys from South America each year, yet often can not supply the demand.

One might wonder who buys all these monkeys, and Mr. Ruhe tells us. A good many go to zoos, others to pet shops for the retail trade, while the majority, sad to relate, go to hospitals and laboratories. In the latter case it is suspected that the simians are experimented upon in various ways in the interest of science. Depending on circumstances, including the law of supply and demand, monkeys bring from $35 to $100 a head.

This is not intended as an advertisement for Mr. Ruhe, but if any of our readers want a monkey or two, the information may be welcome.

PUSHING OR CHEEKY, WHICH?

Several friends were walking on a rather crowded thoroughfare when a young man pushed his way through and briskly moved ahead. "Wasn't he cheeky elbowing his way between us that way?" remarked one. "Oh, I don't know; I imagine he is just a pushing young man," analyzed another. Which started a discussion. The conclusion reached by these business men was that it is important for a young man to be full of go and energy and push, but that he hurts himself if his forcefulness gives others the impression that he is cheeky. It was agreed, too that anyone who behaves brusquely on in any way rudely in a crowd of strangers is likely to act similarly when making business contacts. One veteran declared most emphatically that he had no use for anyone who is obsequious when he thinks obsequiousness politic but boorish when dealing with underlings, because, he emphasized, the two invariably go together.

In getting ahead, don't elbow others out of the way. Pushing must be done politely. Then others will get behind you, not in front of you.

SIDELIGHTS

Detective Ben Hanke of Evanston, Ill., believes his first impulse should guide him in making decisions in the future. The other day he arrested a man known to be a former pickpocket and started to lead him to jail, but the fellow pleaded that he had reformed and was married, so Hanke let him go. Upon returning to the station Hanke discovered that his watch and chain were gone, also.

An intricate matrimonial tangle is reported from Zwole, Holland. A widower married a young girl. Then his son by a former marriage married the girl's mother, thus becoming his father's stepfather. At the same time, as we figure it, the son became his own step-grandfather.

Excessive ambition has been the undoing of many a man, and so it happened to Harry Van Steenberger of Harmony Grove, California. He was ambitious to set a record of drinking 10 gallons of wine in one sitting, and bet that he could do it. With less than a pint to go, after drinking from Saturday until Monday night, he toppled over and died.

Anders Hansen of Copenhagen was choking to death from a crust of bread lodged in his windpipe. Realizing that he must have air quickly, he inserted the blade of his pocket knife in his throat just below the obstruction and got relief until a regular surgeon could be called to finish the job.

After beating and putting three mashers to flight by wielding her umbrella, Miss Reena Blettel, an 18-year-old beauty prize winner of New York, was tired. So when a fourth accosted her she permitted him to walk under the umbrella for a distance of seven blocks, when she turned him over to a policeman.

Tom Pillon of Chicago witnessed a sad movie and laughed heartily while others wept, until he was finally put out of the theater. He sued the management and the judge upheld Pillion's right to laugh, regardless of the nature of the show, and awarded him $300.

By his many philanthropies, John D. Rockefeller has largely overcome the adverse public opinion under which he labored years ago. But John D.'s benevolence has not impressed Alson Chapman of Long Beach, California, who figures that the oil king owes him $241.15, being principal and interest on $11 which Chapman claims is due for labor performed 51 years ago in the oil fields.

If Harry Wilson of Los Angeles has his way, it will cost a neighbor of his something more than $7,000 a bite for three bites. Wilson claims that the neighbor bit off a part of his nose, a slice of his lower lip and a section of a finger during a recent argument.

A lady correspondent of the Christian Science Monitor protests against the habit of novelists who picture the inhabitants of Mars as being full of destructive plans for wiping out the earth. She says we have no evidence that the Martians, if there be any, would not be good fellows if we only knew them. Maybe she is right.

Folks have queer ideas of the value of things. A little old one-cent British Guinea postage stamp issued in 1856, found by a schoolboy in that country, is said to be so rare as to be worth $50,000. If we had it we suspect that we would sell it for less.

Walter, Cyr of Concordia, Kan., took a nevel means of trying to rid himself of a life insurance agent who daily worried him in an effort to sell him a policy. He disappeared for three days and when finally found sitting on top of a straw stack he swallowed poison, but doctors saved him. Now the agent will have a new argument.

Dr. Farrington, geologist of the Field museum in Chicago, declares that owing to the lighter air on the moon a man could jump 36 feet with ease. Maybe there is where good pedestrains go when they die.

People appreciate things that cost them something, thinks Rev. H. D. Tucker of the Asbury Methodist Church, El Paso, Texas. To test his theory he has offered for sale season tickets to the weekly prayer meetings of his church.

Dr. W. J. O'Shea, superintendent of New York's public schools, is making himself solid with the younger generation. He has issued an order forbidding home work by pupils of the first three grades, and only a very limited amount for older students is permitted.

There are a good many swivelchair officials, but P. J. McAuliffe, chief of police in Weston, Mass., goes them one better. Being an invalid, he has performed the duties of his office successfully for 30 years while bedfast at his home. He refuses to take pay for his services.

GARY THEATRE TO PRESENT "THE SECOND MAN," MAY 20

The Theatre Guild of New York, making its first visit to the Pacific coast, scored a desided hit in "The Doctor's Dilemma," George Bernard Shaw's sparkling comedy. The last performance of this brilliant play will be given this Saturday night, May 18, to be followed by the second play of the series, "The Second Man," on May 20. S. N. Behrman wrote this comedy. It was produced by the Guild of New York City last season and immediately became the success of the season there. Accordingly the New York Theatre Guild decided to send it to the Pacific coast. It is a witty and civilized comedy, filled with bright and engaging dialogue. It is an infectious piece of mischief throughout.

In leading roles will appear Elizabeth Risdon, Alan Mowbray, Peg Entwhistle, and Neal Caldwell, all distinguished principals of the New York Theatre Guild's company.

"The Second Man" will be followed by "Ned McCobb's Daughter," the week of May 27, and "John Ferguson" the week of June 5. "Ned McCobb's Daughter" is from the pen of a California playwright, Sidney Howard. There will be matinees on Wednesdays and Saturdays of each week.

New York City uses the telephone to the extent of 8,000,000 calls a day.

It sometimes takes a lot of fiction to explan the truth.

Planning high-speed business

More than 95% of the telephone calls from one town to another in the Bell System are on a high-speed basis. The operator in many cases now asks you to hold the telephone while the call is put through.

Out of town calls used to be handled by one operator taking your order and giving it to another group of operators to put through. You now give your call direct to the operators who put it through—and put it through fast while you are on the line.

A high-speed service to all parts of the country—calls from one town to another as swift, clear and easy as local calls—that is the aim of the Bell System.

It is sometimes necessary to take heroic measures to preserve our silence. Consider the problem of the Tucson Light and Power company, which has a Diesel engine with an exhaust pipe 32 inches in diameter, the roar of which could be heard for 14 miles. To overcome the tremendous and unbearable noise which the engine would develop a Maxim silencer has been built which weighs 26,000 pounds, is seven feet in diameter and is 20 feet long. The first silencer of this type was six inches long and went on the end of a gun barrel.

When your Children Cry for It

Baby has little upsets at times. All your care cannot prevent them. But you can be prepared. Then you can do what any experienced nurse would do—what most physicians would tell you to do—give a few drops of plain Castoria. No sooner done than Baby is soothed; relief is just a matter of moments. Yet you have eased your child without use of a single doubtful drug; Castoria is vegetable. So it's safe to use as often as an infant has any little pain you cannot pat away. And it's always ready for the crueler pangs of colic, or constipation or diarrhea; effective, too, for older children. Twenty-five million bottles were bought last year.

FRISCO TRAINS MEN TO DO HOUSEWORK

Result of Unemployment Situation There.

San Francisco, Calif.—The unemployment situation in San Francisco has played havoc with the "stronger sex," in the opinion of the city's old-timers who remember at least a few of the days of '49 and when North Beach was the world's toughest community.

The old-timers' views were aired, in a typically old-time manner, after announcement that the Associated Charities of San Francisco had started a school to train men to do housework.

"It just don't seem reasonable," was the comment of one of the old guard, "that the male folk should have to scrub floors and run them ding-fangled sweepers in order to make a livin'."

"Now I remember when—" and here the gray-haired veteran launched into a graphic story of the time when "men were men" and San Francisco was the "wide open" city of the world.

However, officials of the Associated Charities can see no reason why men should not be trained to do domestic work.

"Men are better fitted to do heavy housework than women," one of the officials explained.

"Why, they can wax floors, operate vacuum cleaners, wash windows and woodwork, run washing machines and do innumerable things."

Under the direction of the officials, seven men were chosen to take the first course, and after an intensive series of lessons in the art of housework were graduated with honors.

The men studied house cleaning, use of modern appliances, manners of taking care of floors, and were taken into the finishing department and taught the polishing, touching up and cleaning of furniture.

Then followed ten days' practical experience in homes and, according to the officials, the ability of the men "was simply marvelous."

Should San Francisco take to the idea of employing men for household work, it is planned to enlarge the school and to add additional courses such as laundering and gardening.

New York Schools Cut Down on Home Study

New York.—What may prove to be a precedent for other school systems throughout the country has been set by New York city, in the curtailment, and in many cases the elimination of home work.

The new policy was announced by Dr. William J. O'Shea, superintendent of schools. Doctor O'Shea's recommendations, effective immediately, provide:

Elimination of all home work in the first three years of elementary schools.

Light home study assignments for the next three years.

Only the most essential and attractive forms of home work for the upper grades.

Junior high schools to be limited to not more than an hour and a half of home work a day.

Abolition of all monotonous forms of home work.

Doctor O'Shea made it plain that he did not approve parental aid in the work of students. He also classified as "monotonous and useless repetition" home work that involved writing a large amount of formal penmanship drills or words a number of times, or the copying from books and the analyzing of complicated sentences.

Pet Snail at Last Decides to Feast

Pontiac, Mich. — Balzar, pet snail who came to his home in Pontiac by some misstep in his early life which landed him in a shipment of bananas from Honduras, at last has ended his "sulks," and come out of his shell for food.

For several months Balzar would have nothing to do with humanity and the food his—or is it "her"—human captors offered. At last, however, hunger overcame timidity and the feast was on.

It was a quite a job to find out what Balzar craved as nourishment, but an offer of bread soaked in milk, overcame the last vestige of shyness and he feasts copiously on this concoction.

AUSTRALIAN TURKEYS

There are some turkeys to be seen in a zoo which come from Australia and which are quite different from the American turkeys we all know.

They are called Brush Turkeys. The mothers and fathers in these families do not care for their little ones at all, which is also different from the ways of our turkeys.

Our turkeys are quite the opposite. When Mrs. Turkey is laying her eggs, Mr. Turkey is always around to give her a warning "Gobble, gobble, gobble," that danger is near.

Then the children are carefully watched until they are four weeks old, as before that time they must not get their feet wet, if they are to be strong, fine turkey children.

Such are the ways of our turkeys.

Mrs. Brush Turkey is so different. She leaves her eggs in a heap of old grass and vegetables and forgets all about them.

Of course, she never knows they are her own children later on.

One day Mrs. Brush Turkey was taking a walk with Mr. Brush Turkey.

"Did you see the children playing around?" asked Mrs. Brush Turkey.

"You don't mean to tell me," said Mr. Brush Turkey, in a horror-stricken voice, "that you have recognized your own children?

"Why, that is terrible, terrible!

"Such a thing has never been known in Brush Turkeyland. We have never recognized our children before.

"What does this mean? I thought I saw you leave the eggs. Did you stay and watch the eggs hatch out into children?

"Dear me, it's a disgrace."

And so Mr. Brush Turkey talked on in the most excited sort of a tone.

You can imagine how heartless they are if they think it is terrible to stay with tiny children, and Mrs. Brush Turkey's answers to Mr. Brush Turkey were just as bad.

"I do wish you would give me a chance to speak," she said. "You kept right on talking, and of course I couldn't get in a word.

"I've several words I want to get in, too. I want to tell you, in the first place, that you are quite wrong."

"I am glad to hear it," said Mr. Brush Turkey. "Yes, now I feel better, much better."

"Please give me a chance to speak," said Mrs. Brush Turkey. "I have already told you that you were wrong in thinking I recognized the children.

"Why, That Is Terrible."

"Neither did I stay with the eggs. I left them, just as any Brush Turkey mother would have done."

"Good, good," said Mr. Brush Turkey, nodding his head.

"And I don't know whether the Brush Turkey children I saw playing are our children or some other turkey's children, and I do not care to know."

"That's right, that's the way to talk," said Mr. Brush Turkey. "I was afraid you were changing your nature."

"Impossible," said Mrs. Brush Turkey. "I saw some turkey children as I was walking around, and I invited them for dinner tomorrow night.

"But I told them to bring their own food."

"You're a Brush Turkey after my own hard heart," said Mr. Brush Turkey. "You don't know whether the children you've just seen are your own children, and you don't care. You left the eggs to hatch out by themselves and the children to look after themselves.

"Now you've asked some turkey children to dinner and you've told them to bring their own food.

"That's the way to give a dinner party. Saves a great deal of fuss and trouble and work."

"True," said Mrs. Brush Turkey. "I'm an unusual creature. I leave my children, and I do not worry about housekeeping."

Light Occupation

"What time does the next train come in?" asked little Edward of the old station agent.

"Why, you little rascal, I've told you five times that it comes in at 4:44."

"I know it," replied Edward, "but I like to see your whiskers wobble when you say 4:44."

One Good Reason

Auntie—Do you ever play with bad little boys, Willie?"

Willie—Yes, auntie.

Auntie—I'm surprised. Why don't you play with good little boys?

Willie—Their mothers won't let me.

STONEHAM LIKES GIANTS' CHANCES

Owner of Team Believes New Yorkers Will Win Out.

In the opinion of Charles A. Stoneham, president and principal owner of the Giants, his club is one of the four which will fight it out for the pennant and he believes that the Giants under John J. McGraw have enough of an edge on the three others to turn the tide in their favor, barring the possibility of serious injury to important players at some critical period of the race.

"McGraw has brought back from the South a well balanced team that has overcome its greatest weakness of a year ago," he said. "That weakness was its inexperience. The young fellows who lacked experience last year now have it and the additions we have made have added strength where it was needed.

"The race will not be an easy one, from what I can observe and from what Manager McGraw tells me. The Cubs, Pirates and St. Louis must be reckoned with. But if the fight really is among these three clubs and the Giants, you will find the Giants in every scrap and battling to the last. I think McGraw has put together a fine team. The pitching is much improved, the catching should be greatly bettered and the reserves are strong. McGraw is very keen on having reserve strength and he seems to be pretty well satisfied with what he now has.

"I said the fight looked as if it would be among four clubs. As a matter of fact, it may be a much different race, with several other clubs making trouble.

"Everything considered, I feel optimistic about the Giants coming through. I have taken a leaf from Manager McGraw's book, however, and refuse to be precise about our winning. There are such things as jinxes and I would hate to conjure one up to injure our chances."

SAME PRESCRIPTION HE WROTE IN 1892

When Dr. Caldwell started to practice medicine, back in 1875, the needs for a laxative were not as great as today. People lived normal lives, ate plain, wholesome food, and got plenty of fresh air. But even that early there were drastic physics and purges for the relief of constipation which Dr. Caldwell did not believe were good for human beings.

The prescription for constipation that he used early in his practice, and which he put in drug stores in 1892 under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a liquid vegetable remedy, intended for women, children and elderly people, and they need just such a mild, safe bowel stimulant.

This prescription has proven its worth and is now the largest selling liquid laxative. It has won the confidence of people who needed it to get relief from headaches, biliousness, flatulence, indigestion, loss of appetite and sleep, bad breath, dyspepsia, colds, fevers. At your druggist, or write "Syrup Pepsin," Dept. BB, Monticello, Illinois, for free trial bottle.

YOUR BANK AND HOW TO USE IT

Special Departments

Apart from the many departments in the modern bank that the whole public contacts with freely, there are usually special departments designed to serve certain types or units of bank customers solely. The Bank of Italy has a number of these interesting departments and they might be enumerated as follows: School savings; industrial savings; foreign language (Chinese, Greek, Italian, Slavonian, Spanish, Russian); service department.

Taking the first, the school savings department, it will be found that the child's contact with this particular banking feature and with the possibility of insuring a prosperous future for himself, involves as little effort as the bringing of a single penny to school. The modern banks and the modern schools have taken the stand that thrift is just as essential to the future welfare of the pupil as arithmetic, the languages and the arts, and that the teaching of thrift should begin as early as any of the other subjects. Therefore the bank pass book has taken its place alongside the speller, the reader and the geography.

The deposit of the penny and all of nickels, dimes and dollars that follow it are duly noted in this little book. On a certain day each week the bank's representative calls to collect from the school. This day, whatever it might be, is called "Bank Day," and it has come to be an institution from one end of the land to the other.

The school child deposits in California now run into millions of dollars, a tremendous investment in future good citizenship and financial security.

The industrial savings department, which takes care of the savings of the men and women in the factories, hydro-electric plants, mining camps, lumber camps, fruit camps and all other establishments where groups of workers are employed, is one of the most important of the many factors employed by the bank for increasing its scope and developing its resources. The field workers in this department lead an interesting life. They are continually going to isolated and obscure places in their role of missionaries of prosperity and thrift. They know the backwoods trails and the rutted wagon roads. They sleep in bunk houses, gather around the night fires of the camp workers and even go down into the mine shafts to establish as many contacts as possible with workers of all types. They fare forth in all sorts of weather, over all sorts of roads and venture into all sorts of experiences so that no one shall be overlooked in the distribution of the benefits that come from modern banking service.

The foreign language departments, limited to contacts with Chinese, Greek, Italian, Slavonian, Spanish and Russian peoples respectively, are giving a service that is particularly notable. While their chief concern is to increase the business of the bank through handling the savings of the foreign born and the children of the foreign born, each of these departments has set up more or less elaborate machinery for qualifying their clients as American citizens wherever such clients are eligible. These customers are instructed in naturalization procedure. Witnesses are obtained for their naturalization hearings. In fact everything is done to qualify them for American citizenship, to make them happy and contented and to thoroughly indoctrinate them with the aims and ideals of real Americanism. The foreign language departments will even go so far as to aid in bringing in the kinsfolk of a client from the homeland under existing immigration and treaty quotas.

These departments conduct their business in the native tongue of the client or prospect whenever necessary. They take care of all remittances to or from the homeland, handle the trust business and investments and negotiate the credit transactions for their customers. They handle passports, visas, travel arrangements and many other features that might be considered outside of the actual banking service.

The service department, formed to accept deposits from sailors, soldiers, and marines, covers perhaps more territory than any other department in the whole banking establishment. It works with the government in collecting banking allotments from service men on station everywhere throughout the world, and in addition has thousands of individual accounts that come in continually. It conducts an investment service that has materially aided hundreds of its clients.

GOVERNOR SIGNS PATROL MEASURE

Governor C. C. Young has written a new chapter in traffic law enforcement history in California by signing Senate Bill No. 714, the new Motor Vehicle Act, creating the California Highway Patrol.

Declaring the bill one of the most important pieces of legislation enacted by the present legislature, Governor Young, by a stroke of the pen, placed all the officers now operating in the various county squads under direct state control, thereby eliminating the old system of "dual authority," and paving the way for uniform traffic enforcement throughout the state.

"It is not an untried experiment," said Governor Young. "Several states have adopted it and the results justify the belief that adequate enforcement may be secured and loss of life and property minimized only through a strong, centralized body of officers, operating under standardized and uniform rules and receiving their orders from one source only."

The new act was introduced by Senator Arthur H. Breed of Oakland and was the result of numerous conferences in which the Division of Motor Vehicles, the automobile clubs, safety and development bodies and other interested groups participated.

Under it, the officers now operating in county squads will become a part of a statewide patrol, headed by a superintendent appointed by the Director of the Department of Public Works and supervised by the Division of Motor Vehicles, a subsidiary unit of the Public Works Department.

Authority of members of the patrol will be confined entirely to an enforcement of the motor vehicle laws. The superintendent is given authority to divide the state into traffic divisions, establish training schools for the officers, and formulate standardized rules and practices to provide a maximum of efficiency.

The new act gives the Division of Motor Vehicles authority to establish night patrols throughout the state. Salaries and other expenses will be paid from registration fees collected by the division. Governor Young pointed out this would relieve the counties of the payment of an annual sum approximating $400,000.

Governor Young declared there are many other features of the act that will relieve the motorist and taxpayer of expense. Chauffeurs' fees, he said, for example, will be reduced some $235,000 by a new definition of the term chauffeur and a reduction of the annual license fee from $2 to $1. Weight fees on commercial vehicles will be reduced some $305,000 and transfer fees some $250,000 more.

Many technical changes, all looking toward a clarification of the present regulations and greater safety on the highways, have been made.

Adequate civil service protection will be assured to the officers by an amendment which Governor Young sponsored and which he will sign as soon as it reaches him.

AIRCRAFT TOUR OF STATE IN JUNE

The National Aeronautic Association has completed plans for the "First California Air Tour," starting from San Francisco's municipal airport at Mills field and Oakland airport on Saturday, June 1.

Approximately 40 planes will take part in the tour, making stops at a number of airports throughout California, where special aerial programs will mark the event.

Special prizes will be awarded contestants scoring the highest points in efficiency, reliability and speed. The purposes of the tour are to demonstrate the safety and reliability of modern aircraft, and to stimulate public interest in aviation.

An appropriate program of aerial events will be staged at Mills Field and at the Oakland Airport prior to the flyers taking off for the tour. Then the pilots will encircle the bay region and fly to Sacramento for an aviation ball that night and a program of aviation stunts on Sunday, June 2.

Stops will be made at Stockton, June 3; Modesto, June 4; Merced, June 5; Fresno, June 6; Los Banos, June 7; Monterey, June 7 and 8. Besides special celebrations and contests at the airports en route, the cities to be visited have prepared entertainment for the flyers, with luncheons, banquets, dances and aviation booster meetings.

The tour will end June 9 at Mills Field.

Grandma is cooking with electricity

"JUST keeping up with the times," says Grandma Collins, "I am one of the many new users of the electric range. I was just over at the P G and E's office and they told me one-thousand five-hundred of their customers will get electric ranges this May and June."

The electric range gives a beautiful, clean kitchen and perfect baking to women who love modern methods.

The electric range has white and gray porcelain enamel that makes kitchens attractive. It bakes perfectly. And it does it automatically. The oven heats up to 400 degrees in 9 to 11 minutes—as fast as one can mix biscuits. The open or closed cooking elements are now made smaller to fit your pans. Heat that was formerly wasted goes to work. Food cooks faster, less electricity is used.

While you're downtown, stop in at a dealer's or at our office and see these new electric ranges. Or telephone us and our representative will gladly show you pictures of the many beautiful new models.

Electric water heating is now economical

The cut in rates of a year ago, means that an electric water heater, when used with an electric range, heats water for only one-third to one-half of a cent per gallon. So little to pay for hot water. And a CLEAN, COOL, all-electric kitchen.

No wonder that women using electricity for cooking are turning to electricity for heating water.

A RED LETTER DAY IN ANNALS OF CIRCLE

Saturday, April 27, was a red letter day in the annals of Germania Circle No. 35, as it was the evening of the official visit of Grand Arch Druidess Carolina Blair, 144 Santa Cruz avenue, to her "home" Circle. For weeks the members had planned and anticipated the preparations by which they might express their love and esteem for their dear sister in the most effective manner. Unity Hall of the Druids' Temple had been secured for the special meeting to which invitations had been sent to the members of the Circles, the grand and past grand officers of the different branches and to the Circles far and near.

The number of visitors was immense, tweny-six grand and past grand officers being present in the beautifully decorated hall. Fresh flowers, colored lights, banners and flags, and an artistic "Willkommer" produced an effect of poetry and joy. During the first part of the reception non-members as well as the members were permitted to remain in the hall, including the twenty-three candidates which had been secured for the occasion. An escort team of beautifully dressed sisters received the expected visitors, and at last the guest of honor made her appearance in a most ingeniously constructed aeroplane, "Bremen," the handiwork of Past Arch Herman Brachmann, surrounded by eight little fairies, dressed in all colors of the rainbow with the addition of white, led by the members of the escort team, carrying garlands of flowers. Brother Brochmann acted as pilot, while two sisters carried a beautiful rainbow at the head of the procession, which moved slowly around the hall amids enthusiastic applause, while Brother Merki played the "Wedding March" from Lohengrin and Sister Von Raven sang. The rainbow coming to a stop at the station of the Arch Druidess, Sister Martins presented the Grand Arch Druidess with a lovely basket of flowers. The Arch Druidess then led the Grand Arch Druidess to a seat at her right, when the little girl in white presented her with a lovely basket of dark red roses.

This concluded the public reception, which was followed by a closed meeting while the candidates were initiated by the team of the Circle in a most creditable manner. The meeting was then closed and delicious refreshments were served in the banquet hall. M.
